SATURDAY, AUGUST 27, 1881.

GAZETTE CLEANINGS.

Horn & Matthews will open up their new saloon to-night in M. Heise's old place.

The Trustees of the M. E. Church are requested to meet at the church this evening to consider important business.

Jack Gehegan is still the manager of the Exchange Hotel, on the plaza, and has not yet found it necessary to reduce the price of meals to 25 cents.

John Coshinsky, a cook, was taken before Justice Steele yesterday for stealing a ham. After hearing the evidence he was found not guilty and discharged.

Billy Burton does not find business slack even after court has adjourned, and will issue his flyers this morning as usual, inviting all to his full bill of fare free lunch to-night.

A number of prominent men from the oil regions of Pennsylvania will soon start on an excursion to Dodge City and Denver. It is hoped they will extend their trip to Las Vegas.

Horn & Matthews have their billiard room in running order. Yesterday they received their bar fixtures and to-night they will open out with a first-class free lunch served up in style. Remember the place, M. Heise's old stand on the plaza.

J. W. Rumsey & Co. will get in their meat to-day and open up their market on the plaza, adjoining I. Stern's store. They have a dandy place and thoroughly understand the cutting of steaks and roasts.

The vacant lot opposite Mr. Friedman's residence is made the general depository for all the rubbish in town. This should be looked after, as it is surrounded by residences. The rubbish should be taken outside of the city limits.

P. J. Martin, of Canada, has bought out the saloon and billiard tables of Harry Brann, of Chapman Hall, and has taken charge. Mr. Martin is a popular gentleman and will fit up the hall and run it in first-class style. Mr. Brann is contemplating a visit to Canada in a short time.

Thursday evening another wedding took place in railroad circles. The contracting parties were engineer H. F. Sells and Miss Carrie Fanning. The ceremony took place at the residence of the bride's father, and was solemnized by Rev. J. C. Eastman, of the Presbyterian church. Happiness attend them.

A subscription paper is being circulated for the purpose of raising the necessary money to finish the Catholic church in this city. The subscriptions are quite liberal, as they should be. This is a well constructed building and will be a handsome one when finished in good style, the yard fenced, etc. It will require about $6,000 to do it right. The list will be left at the store of H. Romero & Bro.

It has been feared for some days past that Nane's band of Apache Indians were moving north and that the towns of southern Colorado might suffer at their hands. These fears were doubled yesterday, the Denver & Rio Grande Railway company receiving a telegraphic dispatch from its men working on the road near Durango, asking for twenty-five stands of muskets, as they expected trouble with the Indians.—Denver Tribune.

Children's parties are the rage. Yesterday afternoon Nettie Gerrard tendered a farewell party to Fanny Teats, which was attended by a number of children, who had a grand play. Present—Belle Teats, Lulu McDonald, Miss Johnson, Nettie Sloan, Arthur and Frankie Sloan, Lucy and Willie Stapp, Nellie and Mettie Koogler, Sammy Shout, Bertie Walker, Maggie Brookover, Mary Trimble, Emma McDonald, Lizzie Allen, Roy Eastman, and the ladies, Mesdames W. B. Stapp, J. H. Koogler, James Garrard, and Mr. Grimshaw.

The Trains.
The express train from the east came in on time yesterday and went south carrying the passengers that had been detained here. The break on Glorieta hill having been repaired the train kept on to Albuquerque where it was tied up for the night, the Arroyo Salado break not yet having been repaired. Transfer of passengers that went down on Thursday's train from Santa Fe, the first to cross the Galisteo river breaks, was made yesterday afternoon. There being no passenger train on the southern end of the line, a mixed train with a coach from the El Paso branch was run south to Deming, passengers being willing to put up with anything for the sake of getting through. The first train over Glorieta hill arrived here two hours late by schedule time and the regular Atlantic express left shortly after its arrival. News has just been received that the track on the El Paso branch has been washed out in several places but it was expected that everything would be put to rights to-day. On account of the wires being down no news of the washouts was received till yesterday.

THE PRESIDENT'S CONDITION.

Why There is no Reason for Great Alarm.

Secretary Blaine to be Looked to in an Emergency.

Interview With Senator Plumb.

A representative of the GAZETTE yesterday met Hon. P. B. Plumb, U. S. Senator from Kansas, at the Depot Hotel, where he was awaiting the arrival of the Atlantic express in the hopes of meeting a gentleman from the Black Range, with whom he is associated in mining. He is stopping with his family at the Hot Springs and is anxious to visit the Range before his return home, and will do so provided stage communication is kept up and there be no too great danger from Indians. He speaks very highly of the Springs and adds his testimony to that of others that Nature has done wonders for the place, and that it is likely to become a great resort under the charge of the railroad company.

The discouraging news from the White House was next discussed. Senator Plumb said that he had strong hopes that the President would rally and yet recover. On the day of the attempted assassination he had fears for the worst. But a week later he was persuaded that the President would live through it. He had partly made up his mind to this, but the hopefulness of Secretary Blaine, with whom he had conferred, no doubt influenced him in forming this opinion. He had clung to that hope, and does now.

"Is there any cause for alarm, do you think?"

"Well no, none in reality except the despatch of Secretary Blaine, given in your telegram this morning. I look to Mr. Blaine to judge just how critical may be the condition of the President."

The Senator was asked to explain why it would be the proper thing to rely on the Secretary of State.

"Just this; Mr. Blaine is the representative of the Cabinet. Not alone due to his pre-eminent position as its head, but he is looked to by the other members of the Cabinet as a man of experience and sagacity, and one to be trusted. He is an 'emergent' man, one who considers any and all emergencies, and without being obtrusive, or seeming to put himself forward, his associates in the Cabinet rely on his judgment, and their opinion is in a great measure influenced by his own."

He related an incident showing how strikingly was this the case. A week after the President was shot, he had stepped into the room where the President usually sat and there met Mr. Blaine and three other members of the Cabinet. They all seemed to depend upon him, to lean on him to a great extent.

"But what sign do you expect Secretary Blaine to give, if there be really alarm for the safety of the President?"

In answering, the Senator promptly explained: "As I have said, Mr. Blaine is one who always considers every emergency, and I do not doubt but that did he consider the President's recovery hopeless, he would send out a proclamation calling the Senate together to choose a President pro tem. of the Senate, in order that public fear might be allayed by not having more than one life standing between the government and anarchy. I have no doubt that he has such a proclamation already to be issued, and that it will be published in season for the Senate to assemble and choose an officer who shall act as Vice-President in case Vice-President Arthur becomes the Chief Executive."

"But may he not withhold that proclamation too long?"

"It is not the nature of the man to so act. He always provides for every contingency, and if anything should happen you would see that he acts promptly and in season."

Reference was made to the fact that Mr. Blaine and Vice President Arthur might not be on the best of terms, owing to political differences.

But Senator Plumb interrupted by saying that Mr. Blaine never allowed any personal differences, nor in fact, anything, to interfere with the discharge of a public service. He could not afford to do it; he was too smart for that. "I have no doubt," remarked the Senator, "that were it necessary for Mr. Blaine to go to Mr. Arthur's back door to perform any act of public service, or subvert the ends of public policy, he would not hesitate to go. Besides I know that he has been in constant communication with the Vice President, and they no doubt have some understanding as to what should be done."

"But should the President die suddenly before Congress could be convened, what would be the result, do you think?"

"I am sure," was the positive and emphatic answer, "that the members of both houses would promptly gather at the capital and would organize without delay. Any member who would neglect to go there at once, in such an emergency, would be justly held up to public execration. With the legislative department of government in session, no one would inquire how they came together, nor by whom organized. The people would feel at ease and content that they were in session."

In all, Senator Plumb spoke very hopefully, and appeared to be in no very anxious frame; he hoped for the best and expected that the President would recover.

When shown a lengthy article from the New York Herald, in which were repeated the opinions of such men as Vanderbilt, Jay Gould, Depew and Judge Hilton, concerning Mr. Arthur's eminent fitness for the Presidency, the Senator said, "I think that were Mr. Arthur called to the high office, he would attempt to follow out the policy of President Garfield. He would be a good President, and his administration a wise one."

MINING FOR MILLIONS.

Organization of the Socorro Tunnel Company.

The Socorro Tunnel Mining Company, which includes the consolidated companies of the Socorro and Mills Tunnels has elected the following board of officers:

President—F. A. Manzanares. Vice-President—Louis Sulzbacher. Secretary—Col. T. B. Mills. Treasurer—Jacob Gross. Executive Board—F. A. Manzanares, T. B. Mills and Sidney M. Barnes. Directors—Louis Sulzbacher, Jacob Gross, F. A. Manzanares, Sidney M. Barnes, T. B. Mills, Lawrence P. Browne and Joseph Rosenwald.

The prospectus of the company, enumerates the following properties as owned and operated by it:

The Wheel of Fortune mine, having a full size and a well-timbered shaft 538 is 131 feet deep, showing a three-foot vein of spar, carrying chloride of silver.

The Chief Victorio mine—a shaft 111 feet deep, disclosing spar and argentiferous galena.

The Strong mine, with a thirty-foot shaft, producing a fine quality of quartz with silver in paying quantities.

The Sheffield mine—full sized claim, with a shaft that promises well.

The Socorro tunnel site, surveyed at right angles to the three claims first above mentioned. Has a 4x64 foot cut for a distance of 531 feet and a few feet additional drifting will strike the Wheel of Fortune lode.

The Mills tunnel site, projected to cross the famous Merritt and Torrence, and the mineral-bearing veins of mountains; now opened to a depth of three hundred feet and under contract.

The capital stock of the company is $1,000,000 divided into shares of $5 each, 40,000 of which it is proposed to place on the market in Philadelphia and New York at once. The money thus realized is to be expended in further developing the properties and in the purchase of machinery. Subscription books will be opened about the fifteenth of September and stock sold at $1 per share. With the large capital that is certain to be realized by the sale of the stock of this company active operations will begin and the Tunnels Company will show up a handsome property.

THE PERSONNEL OF THE DIRECTORY

Of the company is a sufficient guarantee that its business will be carefully and honorably conducted. Messrs. L. P. Browne and F. A. Manzanares, of the old established firm of Browne & Manzanares, bankers and commission merchants are counted among our most solid and influential men, who have a good reputation in the commercial world. Louis Sulzbacher, Esq., is the oldest attorney in the Territory and an honorable and upright man of business. Jacob Gross is the senior member of the commission firm of Gross, Blackwell & Co., and Cashier of the San Miguel National Bank. Joseph Rosenwald is senior member of the firm of Rosenwald & Co., wholesale and retail merchants, and Vice-President of the San Miguel National Bank. Col. T. B. Mills, senior member of the firm of Mills & Hadley, publishers of the Mining World is one of our most energetic business men. All these gentlemen are residents of this city, in high standing. The only member of the directory residing outside of Las Vegas is Col. Sidney M. Barnes, U. S. District Attorney for New Mexico, and an enterprising citizen of Santa Fe.

Charles Wheelock has some very good specimens of gold bearing ore from the "Duncan" tunnel located about a quarter of a mile up the canyon above the Hot Springs. The specimens carry flour gold but no assay of the rock has yet been made. The tunnel has been run into the mountain a distance of thirty feet from the face, and all the distance has been through mineral bearing rock. The tunnel is five feet square and is expected to cut a rich vein. The owners are McLain Bros., Hugh Pritchard and Charles Wheelock. They started work with an assay of $21 in gold from surface rock and will push development.

J. D. Wolf having assumed the sole management of the Exchange billiard hall and saloon will provide his many customers with a grand free lunch to-night.

Exchange Hotel.

The Exchange Hotel, on the plaza, under the excellent management of Jack Gehegan, is recovering its old time prestige, and now has an excellent run of custom. Situated as it is, so convenient to the business portion of the west side, travelers and business men prefer to stop there, particularly when the accommodations are so superior. 8-27-1m

Houghton's Big Plumbing Shop.

The dear people are respectfully requested to bear in mind that O. L. Houghton has the only complete and large stock of plumbing and gas fitting goods in this great city, and that he is thoroughly prepared with first-class workmen and a fully equipped shop to do all such work at the lowest prices, as he has bought his material from the manufacturers at New York and has paid cash for it. He is in the business on the correct basis, and proposes to stay in it, and "cutting" and cheap prices hath no terrors for him, and don't you forget it, if you please. 8-27-21*
